1. Full and partial exchanges into an existing annuity require that the existing annuity allow for additional premium payments.
2. Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") guidance provides that a partial exchange of an annuity contract for another annuity contract will generally be treated as tax-free only if no amounts, other than annuity payments made for life or for a term of at least 10 years, are distributed from either contract involved in the exchange for 180 days following the date the contract is placed in-force (the date of transfer, in the case of a partial exchange into an existing contract). A subsequent tax-free exchange during the 180-day period is not taken into account. However, other transactions during the 180-day period will be characterized consistent with their substance and may result in adverse tax consequences.
3. If you are considering exchanging your policy under Section 1035, and you recently made a withdrawal or other use of your policy values (for example, to pay off a policy loan), you should be aware that there is a risk that the IRS may view the withdrawal or other use of policy values as taxable boot received in connection with the exchange. In this case, your taxable income for the year of the exchange could be higher than if the transaction were treated as independent. The IRS has not issued any formal guidance regarding the circumstances under which policy transactions may be integrated.

This is our understanding of the IRS's current interpretation of recent administrative guidance, which may change in the future. You should consult your own tax advisor before exchanging your existing contract. Neither NYLIAC, nor its agents or employees, can provide tax or legal advice.

Annuities are issued by New York Life Insurance and Annuity Corporation ("NYLIAC"), a Delaware Corporation. NYLIAC is a wholly owned subsidiary of New York Life Insurance Company.
Variable Annuities offered through properly licensed registered representatives of a third party registered broker dealer.
